Ladies' Man

Tonight we debate that this generation has gone too far. But with one of our newest members, Sam Binstock, there's no debate: he definitely has his way with the ladies. Is it OK Joyce?

The GEN attempted to contact Joyce to reveal her opinion on her husband's exploits. Whilst she refused to comment, paparazzi from the GEN have found Joyce in the arms of her own mystery man.

Editorial. Tonight is our big club debate where we see orator against orator, wit against wit. We expose hidden talents, and probably other things we'd rather not expose.

After a last minute appearance as guest speaker last week and giving a travelogue on Easter Island and its famous statues, our editor goes missing this week as instead of Rotary, he paints the town red to celebrate his birthday. Good luck with the debate and see you next week!

A touching story

While on holiday in Kenya and walking through the bush, a man came across an elephant standing with one leg raised in the air. The elephant seemed distressed so the man approached very carefully. He got down on one knee and inspected the bottom of the elephant's foot, only to find a large thorn deeply embedded.

As carefully and as gently as he could, he removed the thorn and the elephant very gingerly put its foot down. The elephant turned to face the man and, with a rather stern look on its face, stared at him. For a good ten minutes, the man stood frozen - thinking of nothing else but being trampled. Eventually the elephant turned and walked away. For years after, the man often remembered and pondered the events of that day...

One day, the man was walking through the zoo with his son. As they approached the elephant enclosure, one of the elephants turned and walked over to where they were standing at the rail. It stared at him and the man couldn't help wondering if this was the same elephant.

He climbed tentatively over the railing and made his way into the enclosure. He walked right up to the elephant and stared back at it in wonder.

Suddenly, the elephant wrapped its trunk around one of the man's legs, picked him up and swung him wildly back and forth along the railing, instantly killing him. Probably wasn't the same elephant...

District Directory

New Rotarians are often clamouring to find out more about what Rotary is and does. And it's often not just the new Rotarians! One of our best resources is a book that every club member receives every year and that is the District Directory. This book provides a great deal of information about clubs within our district and the district itself.

Want to know when you should wear your pin? What does Rotary's wheel emblem represent? What are our District committees? What is RYLA, RYPEN or the District Organ Donor Registry? All this and more can be found in the Directory, not just contact details for other Rotarians.

Open it up when you get home and just read a few pages—you'll be amazed how much more you can learn about Rotary.

Rotarians by the Truckload

Last Friday a group from our club helped load a truck with items from Glen Eira College for donation to a school in Papua New Guinea. Hein Otten from Rotary Club of Chadstone-East Malvern plus students from the Interact Club at the College assisted with loading the items. Rotarians Geoff Asher, Sam Binstock, Jack Dimand, Bev & Marc Fookes, and Ian Marks were all on hand. If you have anything for donation, contact Marc Fookes.
